

Retailsales

A modern set of retail sales application equipment takes into account the needs of selling goods at a large number of branches controlled from the headquarters. In the headquarters, the types of goods, updated prices, various types of discounts and promotions are configured. At the same time, it is possible to centrally manage stock removal and removal from sales. The headquarters also has an overview of the state of the warehouse at branches, sales and other indicators.

Branches take over prices and configurations automatically, so the operator does not have to make any changes. The warehouse status at a specific branch is updated in real time, while the branch can view the sales statement, monthly stock levels, turnover and sales at any time.
